WFRN President Phyllis Moen in the New York Times!

The February 28, 2016 New York Times magazine section was devoted to evolving issues in the workplace. One article, called "Rethinking the Work-Life Equation," focused on WFRN President Phyllis Moen and her long engagement with issues of workplace flexibility.

Her research with Erin Kelly on an experiment to give workers control over their work schedules was discussed at length. It is wonderful to see such a lengthy and positive discussion of these issues in such a prominent venue. To read the complete article, click here.
