

Thank you for being a WFRN Member!

Dear WFRN Member,

Thank you for supporting the Work and Family Researchers Network with your membership. Your membership support is crucial to maintaining the vibrancy of the WFRN by giving voice to multiple stakeholders and advancing work and family scholarship and advocacy.

We encourage you to get involved in the WFRN. With multiple opportunities to exchange ideas, connect with other WFRN members, or participate in the decision-making of the organization, there's something for everyone. Here are some of the ways you can participate:

- Posting news to the WFRN News Feed,
- Submitting permissible versions of your scholarly work to the WFRN repository, the Work and Family Commons,
- Posting events to our calendar,
- Joining a WFRN committee, and/or
- Joining one of the WFRN's Special Interest Groups – or organizing a new SIG in an area of interest not yet covered by the existing groups.

We also hope you are enjoying the many benefits of membership, including access to the WFRN online resources, weekly News and Events, monthly Work and Family Common updates, and a complimentary online subscription to the Community, Work and Family journal. And as plans for the next WFRN biennial conference in 2018 develop, we look forward to your participation!

Thanks again for being a part of the WFRN. If you have any suggestions on how the Membership Committee can better serve its members, please contact the committee chair, Krista Lynn Minnotte (krista.minnotte@und.edu).
