This legislative summary sheet was developed to give an overview of the policy and legislation related to breastfeeding. Statutes and bills can be reviewed individually, but often it is useful to view them in “themes” or “clusters” to:

- Highlight related statutes in one particular state
- Make it easier to compare legislation between states
- Illustrate varying legislation language and content

Contents in this Summary Sheet:

- Allows breastfeeding in any public or private location p. 1
- Accommodates breastfeeding in the workplace p. 7

  The act of breastfeeding an infant child, including breastfeeding in any place where the woman may legally be, does not constitute public indecency.

Accommodates breastfeeding in the workplace

Arkansas

- 2009 Ark. Acts 621; 2009 Ark. HB 1552
  An employer shall provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for her child in order to maintain milk supply and comfort. An employer shall make a reasonable effort to provide a private, secure, and sanitary room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express her breast milk.

California

- Cal Lab Code § 1030
  Every employer, including the state and any political subdivision, shall provide a reasonable amount of break time to accommodate an employee desiring to express breast milk for the employee's infant child. The break time shall, if possible, run concurrently with any break time already provided to the employee. Break time for an employee that does not run concurrently with the rest time authorized for the employee by the applicable wage order of the Industrial Welfare Commission shall be unpaid.

Colorado

- C.R.S. 8–13.5–104
  An employer shall provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to allow the employee to express breast milk for her nursing child for up to two years after the child’s birth. The employer shall make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express breast milk in privacy. Before an employee may seek litigation for a violation of this section, there shall be nonbinding mediation between the employer and the employee.

Connecticut

- Conn. Gen. Stat. § 31–40w
  Any employee may, at her discretion, express breast milk or breastfeed on site at her workplace during her meal or break period. An employer shall make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location, in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where the employee can express her milk in private. An employer shall not discriminate against, discipline or take any adverse employment action against any employee because such employee has elected to exercise her rights under subsection (a) of this section.
Georgia

- O.C.G.A. § 34-1-6
  An employer may provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for her infant child. The employer may make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location (in close proximity to the work area), other than a toilet stall, where the employee can express her milk in privacy. The break time shall, if possible, run concurrently with any break time already provided to the employee. An employer is not required to provide break time under this Code section if to do so would unduly disrupt the operations of the employer.

Hawaii

- HRS § 378-2
  It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any employer or labor organization to refuse to hire or employ, or to bar or discharge from employment, or withhold pay, demote, or penalize a lactating employee because an employee breastfeeds or expresses milk at the workplace. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "breastfeeds" means the feeding of a child directly from the breast.

Illinois

- 820 ILCS 260/10
  An employer shall provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for her infant child. The break time must, if possible, run concurrently with any break time already provided to the employee. An employer is not required to provide break time under this Section if to do so would unduly disrupt the employer's operations.

Indiana

- Burns Ind. Code Ann. § 22-2-14-2
  To the extent reasonably possible, an employer shall provide a private location, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express the employee's breast milk in privacy during any period away from the employee's assigned duties. To the extent reasonably possible, an employer shall: (1) provide a refrigerator or other cold storage space for keeping milk that has been expressed; or (2) allow the employee to provide the employee's own portable cold storage device for keeping milk that has been expressed until the end of the employee's work day.

Maine

- Burns Ind. Code Ann. § 22-2-14-2
  An employer, as defined in section 603, subsection 1, paragraph A, shall provide adequate unpaid break time or permit an employee to use paid break time or meal time each day to express breast milk for her nursing child for up to 3 years following childbirth. The employer shall make reasonable efforts to provide a clean room or other location, other than a bathroom, where an employee may express breast milk in privacy. An employer may not discriminate in any way against an employee who chooses to express breast milk in the workplace.
Minnesota

Minn. Stat. § 181.939
An employer must provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for her infant child. The break time must, if possible, run concurrently with any break time already provided to the employee. An employer is not required to provide break time under this section if to do so would unduly disrupt the operations of the employer. The employer must make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location, in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where the employee can express her milk in privacy. The employer would be held harmless if reasonable effort has been made.

Mississippi

Miss. Code Ann. § 71-1-55
No employer shall prohibit an employee from expressing breast milk during any meal period or other break period provided by the employer.

Montana

All state and county governments, municipalities, and school districts and the university system must have a written policy supporting women who want to continue breastfeeding after returning from maternity leave. It is an unlawful discriminatory practice for any public employer: (a) to refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge from employment an employee who expresses milk in the workplace; or (b) to discriminate against an employee who expresses milk in the workplace in compensation or in terms, conditions, or privileges of employment unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification.

Mont. Code Anno., § 39-2-216
All state and county governments, municipalities, and school districts and the university system shall make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express the employee's breast milk as provided in 39-2-215.

All state and county governments, municipalities, and school districts and the university system shall provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for the employee's child, as provided in 39-2-215 and 39-2-216, if breaks are currently allowed.

New Mexico

In order to foster the ability of a nursing mother who is an employee to use a breast pump in the workplace, an employer, including the state and its political subdivisions, shall provide: (1) a space for using the breast pump that is: (a) clean and private; (b) near the employee’s workspace; and (c) not a bathroom; and (2) flexible break times. An employer shall not be liable for: (1) storage or refrigeration of breast milk; (2) payment for a nursing mother’s break time in addition to established employee breaks; or (3) payment of overtime while a nursing mother is using a breast pump.

New York

NY CLS Labor § 206-c
An employer shall provide reasonable unpaid break time or permit an employee to use paid break time or meal time each day to allow an employee to express breast milk for her nursing child for up to three years.
following child birth. The employer shall make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location, in close proximity to the work area, where an employee can express milk in privacy. No employer shall discriminate in any way against an employee who chooses to express breast milk in the workplace.

North Dakota

- 2009 N.D. SB 2344
  An employer may use the designation “infant friendly” on its promotional materials if the employer adopts a workplace breastfeeding policy that includes the following: a) flexible work scheduling, including breaks that provide time for expression of breast milk; b) a convenient, sanitary, safe, and private location, other than a restroom, allowing privacy for breastfeeding or expressing breast milk.

Oklahoma

- 40 Okla. St. § 435
  An employer may provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to breastfeed or express breast milk for her child to maintain milk supply and comfort. An employer is not required to provide break time under this section if to do so would create an undue hardship on the operations of the employer. An employer may make a reasonable effort to provide a private, secure, and sanitary room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express her milk or breastfeed her child. The Department of Health shall issue periodic reports on breastfeeding rates, complaints received, and benefits reported by both working breastfeeding mothers and employers.

Oregon

- ORS § 653.075
  The Legislative Assembly finds that: (1) women with infants and toddlers are the fastest growing sector of today’s labor force, with at least 50 percent of pregnant women who are employed returning to work by the time their children are three months old; (2) the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that every child be breast-fed for at least the first 12 months of life and urges that arrangements be made for expressing breast milk if the mother and child are separated; (3) women who wish to continue breastfeeding after returning to work have relatively simple needs. These needs include a clean, convenient, private location to express milk at the work site and adequate break time in which to do so.

Rhode Island

- R.I. Gen. Laws § 23–13.2–1
  An employer may provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to breastfeed or express breast milk for her infant child to maintain milk supply and comfort. An employer is not required to provide break time under this section if to do so would create an undue hardship on the operations of the employer. An employer shall make a reasonable effort to provide a private, secure and sanitary room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where an employee can express her milk or breastfeed her child. The department of health shall issue periodic reports on breastfeeding rates, complaints received and benefits reported by both working breastfeeding mothers and employers.
Tennessee

- Tenn. Code Ann. § 50-1-305
  An employer shall provide reasonable unpaid break time each day to an employee who needs to express breast milk for that employee’s infant child. The break time shall, if possible, run concurrently with any break time already provided to the employee. An employer shall not be required to provide break time under this section if to do so would unduly disrupt the operations of the employer. The employer shall make reasonable efforts to provide a room or other location in close proximity to the work area, other than a toilet stall, where the employee can express breast milk in privacy. The employer shall be held harmless if reasonable efforts have been made to comply with this subsection.

Texas

- Tex. Health & Safety Code § 165.003
  A business may use the designation “mother-friendly” in its promotional materials if the business develops a policy supporting the practice of worksite breastfeeding that addresses the following: (1) work schedule flexibility, including scheduling breaks and work patterns to provide time for expression of milk; (2) the provision of accessible locations allowing privacy; (3) access nearby to a clean, safe water source and a sink for washing hands and rinsing out any needed breast-pumping equipment; and (4) access to hygienic storage alternatives in the workplace for the mother’s breast milk. The business shall submit its breastfeeding policy to the department. The department shall maintain a list of “mother-friendly” businesses covered under this section and shall make the list available for public inspection.

- Tex. Health & Safety Code § 165.003
  The public health department shall develop recommendations supporting the practice of worksite breastfeeding that address the following: a) work schedule flexibility, including scheduling breaks and work patterns to provide time for expression of milk; b) the provision of accessible locations allowing privacy; c) access nearby to a clean, safe water source and a sink for washing hands and rinsing out any needed breast-pumping equipment; and d) access to hygienic storage alternatives in the workplace for the mother’s breast milk.

Vermont

- 21 V.S.A. § 305
  For an employee who is a nursing mother, the employer shall for three years after the birth of a child: a) provide reasonable time, either compensated or uncompensated, throughout the day to express breast milk for her nursing child and b) make a reasonable accommodation to provide appropriate private space that is not a bathroom stall. An employer may be exempted from the provisions of subsection (a) of this section if providing time or an appropriate private space for expressing breast milk would substantially disrupt the employer’s operations. An employer shall not retaliate or discriminate against an employee who exercises the right provided under this section.

Virginia

- Va. Code Ann. § 2.2–2639
  No employer employing more than five but less than 15 persons shall discharge any such employee on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, including lactation, or of age if the employee is 40 years old or older. For the purposes of this section,
"lactation" means a condition that may result in the feeding of a child directly from the breast or the expressing of milk from the breast.

Washington

- Rev. Code Wash. (ARCW) § 43.70.640
  An employer may use the designation "infant–friendly" on its promotional materials if the employer has an approved workplace breastfeeding policy addressing at least the following: a) flexible work scheduling, including scheduling breaks and permitting work patterns that provide time for expression of breast milk; b) a convenient, sanitary, safe, and private location, other than a restroom, allowing privacy for breastfeeding or expressing breast milk; c) a convenient clean and safe water source with facilities for washing hands and rinsing breast-pumping equipment located in the private location specified in (b) of this subsection; and d) a convenient hygienic refrigerator in the workplace for the mother’s breast milk.
